

Voice Acting Information For:

Kimlinh Tran

Email : channoia@gmail.com

Voice Acting Body of Work : http://docs.google.com/Doc?id=dhr8mnnr_0gbbg3mfx

Location : USA - Moorpark, CA

Accents/Dialects : “Standard” American, Mid-Atlantic/British (+ Cockney), French, Eastern European, more on request

About : Kimlinh always enjoyed animation since she was young, wanting to be a cartoon character when she grew up. Thing is, she thought the way to do it was to draw, and eventually to create those characters with her writing. Believing that writing would be her way of life, she explored her occupational options in her senior year in high school, 2008—The options given to her were taxidermist and magician. With no taxidermists or magicians to job shadow and interview, and a dormant interest in voice acting, she focused her senior project around voice acting and was dead set in pursuing the craft after job shadowing one of her heroes during his recording session. After interviewing the production side of things and sitting in on another recording session at Bang Zoom! Entertainment, she got the lucky opportunity to provide additional voices for an anime called Tweeny Witches, and vowed to practice until the studio had every reason to call her in again for future projects.

Kimlinh majored in Screenwriting at California State University of Northridge and graduated with honors in 2011. She briefly worked at Cinema Libre Studios as a marketing intern, and displayed an avid interest in media literacy. One of her professors caught on quick that she was great at writing, but screenwriting wasn't what she wanted to do with her life, evident by her passion for voice acting and rapidly growing body of work. If Kimlinh's interests had to be summed up short and sweet, she ultimately wants to be a storyteller, with voice acting being her tool of choice. In 4 years of voice acting, she amassed over 180 credits and is currently voicing for video games, TV series, feature films, and other forms of new media. She still draws, is a contributing writer on VG Tribune, and is constantly broadening her horizons as she reaches for her goals.

And yes, Bang Zoom! Entertainment calls her in more often nowadays.